Fire Blooms in a Welsh Garden [1] A solid and convincing opening section, with good ensemble and contrasts heard.

[2] Rhythmically accurate and music drives with purpose. Some inner voices are lost in the balance as it builds, but good effects and drama. Nice effects to close.

[3] Good detail, if a little heavy to open. Solo lines well done. The tempo sometimes falters but it does recover - more effort to maintain would enhance this even more. Very good before [K]

[K] tutti comes lovely. [L] A little too robust but I admire the energy! Good rhythmical work. Impressive end.

[4] Just the right 'feel' to open. Pleasant solo contributions - all bravely played. Well done euph!

[Q] Transparency is an issue, but nice control to follow. Tempo! Pesante approach is effective

[P] Ensemble not always 100% but good sounds to follow and through [Q]. Intonation is a challenge to close but it is solid and secure.

[5] Excellent bell effects - this sparkles as it should. Presto: pulse is lost slightly and subdivision of $\frac{11}{8}$ is not always accurate. It recovers though and settles. [V] I like the lightness of touch. Again the spacing (rhythmically) is not always right - it seems a little "crushed". Builds to [2] which is full of drama and good close from all with impressive technique all round.

Thank you!

Overall, some very good band playing on show today which was convincing and well-crafted and prepared by MDS. The odd fragile moment was evident and sometimes rhythmical / balance / technical challenges caught you out, but overall it was a good delivery of this piece.
